

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

VOL. 5--NO. 202.

MAYSVILLE, KY., MONDAY, JULY 19, 1886.

PRICE ONE CENT.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce that HON. GARDNER E. WALL is a candidate for Congress in the Ninth Congressional district of Kentucky. We call your attention to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR JUDGE OF THE SUPERIOR COURT.

We are authorized to announce Hon. J. Q. WARD, Judge of Superior Court from the Commonwealth of Kentucky, is a candidate subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR CONSTABLE.

We are authorized to announce JOHN L. CHAMBERLAIN as a candidate for Constable of the County of Wayne, Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

We are authorized to announce C. T. McDaniel as a candidate for Constable in precinct No. 3 at the August election, 1886.

THE KENTUCKY CENTRAL R. R. "BLUE GRASS ROUTE."

Shortest and Quickest Route

From Central Kentucky to all points
North, South, West and South.
Fast Line between

LEXINGTON AND CINCINNATI.

Schedule in effect May 16, 1886.

	No. 51 NORTH.	No. 52 SUNDAY.	No. 53 EXCEPT Sunday.
Leave Covington	2 00 p.m.	2 00 p.m.
Leave Lexington	7 25 a.m.	4 25 p.m.
Leave M. & T. R.	8 40 a.m.	5 45 p.m.
Arrive Cincinnati	9 01 a.m.	6 05 p.m.
Leave Cincinnati	10 30 a.m.	7 40 p.m.
Arrive Lexington	12 30 p.m.	8 45 p.m.
Leave Lexington	1 30 p.m.	9 45 p.m.
Arrive Covington	11 30 p.m.	10 15 p.m.

Note—Trains 3 and 4 are daily between Lexington and Cincinnati; other trains are daily except Sunday.

Direct connection is made at Winchester with the Louisville & Nashville, and at Ashland with Huntington, Charlestown, W. Va., and Eastern cities.

Trains 3 and 4 run via Winchester Solid trains, with Pullman Sleeping cars, between Cincinnati, Lexington, W. Va., and Washington, D. C.

Through tickets and baggage checked to Washington, D. C.

For full particulars address or call on any agent of the company, or D. A. Feely, General Passenger Agent, Cincinnati, or F. B. Morse, General Passenger Agent, Covington, Ky.

H. E. HUNTINGTON, Receiver,
General offices, Covington, Ky.

Maysville, Manchester, Vaneburg and Portsmouth Daily Mail-
road Packet,

HANDY No. 2

H. S. REDDEN, Master, | BRUCE REDDEN,
H. S. REDDEN, Master, | BRUCE REDDEN,
Member.

Leave Mayville at 10 o'clock Tuesday and arrives at Portsmouth at 8 o'clock, in time to connect with the Sevierville Railroad for Ironon, Ashland, Lancaster, and Cincinnati, via Clifton, Ohio, in connection with the Continental Line for the East.

MAYSICK STILL TO THE FRONT

THEY MUST CO.

J. A. Jackson & Son, for the next thirty days, will offer their Spring and Summer lines of goods, and all new and good goods. We invite special attention to our stock of Ladies Goods of the latest styles. Corsets, Alannah Prints and a large stock of Novelties.

Parasols, Fans, Hosiery, Gloves

at your own price. Brown and Black Cotton, and all kinds of lace. We have a large stock of Queenware, Glassware, Launds, and everything generally found in a house. We have a large stock of ladies' hats, and what some people term a "Noah's Ark." Everything you can wear is to be had here. In fact, for the last three years we have had added.

A two-wheeled Spring Wagon, a good Buggy, two sets of Harness and a good Double Show Plow, and a lot of good Cedar Posts.

Those interested in W. Hill will please call and settle. We need money.

J. A. JACKSON & SON,

LANE & WORKRICK.

Contractors,

ARCHITECTS and BUILDERS.

Plans and specifications furnished on reasonable terms and all work satisfactorily and speedily done on Third street, between Wall and Union.

EQUITY GROCERY.

—Established 1865 by—

G. W. GEISEL.

Fruit and vegetables in season. Your package is respectfully solicited. Second Street, nearly opposite our house, Mayville, Ky.

HENRY MARGAED,

—No. 7 Market street,—

RELIABLE MERCHANT TAILOR.

Cut and examine my samples of Foreign Cloth, and I will supply you with the best houses of New York. Built to order or more reasonable terms than any other house in town. Will supply you with the best for dyeing and seaming houses in Cincinnati.

WALL & WORTHINGTON,

{ GARRETT S. WALL,
{ E. L. WORTHINGTON.

Attorneys and Counselors at Law.

Will practice in all courts in Mason and Campbell counties, and in the Circuit and Court of Appeals. All collections given prompt attention.

and Whiskey Hand.

{ J. C. COFFEE,
{ J. C. COFFEE.

OPUM.

{ J. C. COFFEE,
{ J. C. COFFEE.

</

THE EVENING BULLETIN

MONDAY, JULY 10, 1886.

The President stands firm.

REFRACTORY Democrats are learning that Cleveland is "boss" of the ranch.

The total assessment for the State is about $4,500,000 short of that for last year.

By the way, what has the Cynthia Democrat got to do with the race for Congress in this district, anyhow?

In one day recently, one hundred and thirty-six new cases of cholera were reported in Italy, and seventy-three deaths from that disease.

REPUBLICANS think the President is "obstinate." If there were a few more public men with a little obstinacy like Cleveland's, the country would be better off.

The Republican Senate is said to be getting a good ready to attack the President's vetoes. Not long ago, if reports are true, it attacked some of his appointments and got bald left.

The Democrats of this district, we think, are able to care for themselves in the coming Congressional contest. If they are not, Kehoe's paper down at Cynthia will not be able to save them.

JUDGE GARRETT S. WALL, one of the Democratic aspirants for Congress in the Ninth District, is whooping things up. He is a good man, and his chances of success are very flattering.—Lexington Press.

Since Cleveland was inaugurated, 110,000 names have been added to the pension roll. Notwithstanding the numerous vetoes of private pension bills, the veterans haven't any just cause for complaint.

It is rumored at Washington that Cleveland is very jealous of Speaker Carlisle's popularity. The rumor is, no doubt, an idle one, and without any foundation. Jealousy would do him no good, anyhow.

The "floaters" of Louisville have organized a club and fixed the price of votes for the coming August election at $5. Such miserable creatures should be disfurnished. Disfranchisement is the only punishment that will fit the case.

The Democrats of Lewis County met last Friday and completed their ticket by nominating the following: County Judge, G. Stampfer; Circuit Clerk, H. McIlhenny; County Clerk, T. C. Wilson; Sheriff, James Darragh; County Attorney, Frank Hull.

The President's warning to office-holders to keep out of political conventions has the right ring. It is plain and to the point, and was given to be obeyed, and not evaded. Any disregard of the order will be considered sufficient cause for summary removal.

The distillers of Nicholasville have decided to settle the county and State taxes without any lawsuits or further trouble. We understand Auditor Hewitt says the State has never been paid any taxes from these sources. Jessamine County will get over $1,000 taxes this year from one distiller.

For the fiscal year ending June 30th, the present administration paid off $6,000,000 of the public debt. This is $33,000,000 more than was paid off during the previous year—the last year of Republican rule. Let "crossers" about Democratic misrule and profligacy cease their prattle.

Out of 2,227 appointments made by Cleveland, all but seventeen have been confirmed. The Republican Senate which made such a blow about what it was going to do, has quieted down, and is now as meek as a mouse. No other President has met with such success in the matter of appointments.

CAPTAIN T. D. MARCUS, of Catlettsburg, has been tendered the office of Pension Inspector for this district. The Leader says he is "eminently fitted for the place, and is familiar with the methods that have been employed in this section in obtaining pensions and the political influences that have been used upon pensioners and applicants for pensions. If he accepts the place, and for the good of the service we hope he will, there is likely to be a general shaking up of the pension list in eastern Kentucky."

REV. A. B. LEONARD, D. D., the Prohibition candidate for Governor in Ohio last year, doesn't suffer much from having made the canvas. Murat Halestad to the contrary notwithstanding. His church, Central Church, Springfield, O., is one of the largest and most prosperous in the conference, and this has been one of the most successful years. The Doctor's congregation is said to be the largest in the city. He is a preacher of remarkable power and pathos, and always succeeds in building up a congregation. We anticipate large crowds at Ruggles Camp Meeting, Aug. 10th and 12th, when he is advertised to preach.

Mean and Malicious.

We notice that ever since Hon. J. D. Kehoe was so badly defeated at the recent primary election in this county, the Cynthia Democrat has taken almost every opportunity to abuse and slander Judge Wall, his successful opponent. The paper referred to is edited by H. C. Kehoe, a brother to the Hon. J. Dexter, and that explains the whole matter. Its malicious attacks fall harmless wherever Judge Wall is known, but parties elsewhere who are not aware of the relationship existing between its editor and the defeated aspirant may allow themselves to be misled. For this reason we call attention to the matter. The paper last week contained a very scurrilous article on the Congressional race in this district, totally without warrant, or one iota of truth, so far as it referred to Judge Wall's character, ability, or popularity in Mason County, or in the other counties of the district. The article was mean and malicious, and if its author thinks he can stir up a "boom" for his brother over at Frankfort, as he is evidently trying to do, he will wake up some of these days and find that he is one of the most miserably mistreated human beings on this earth. The editor of the Democrat resides out of this district, but he writes as though he was better informed as to the present race than people who live here and have every opportunity for keeping themselves posted. The correspondent at this place, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, was a warm supporter of Mr. Kehoe in the recent primary. He wrote to his paper the other day of Judge Wall's chances as follows:

Judge Garrett S. Wall is making a gallant fight for the Democratic nomination, and I think he is likely to win. It is generally conceded that his nomination would be equivalent to an election, and this, with the determination to redeem this district, strengthens his chances.

We advise the Hon. J. Dexter to "call off" his brother from his venomous attacks. They will do him no good in this county or district. On the contrary they can not fail to do him irreparable injury in a political sense. Let him, the Hon. J. Dexter Kehoe, keep faith with Judge Wall, who will if nominated, carry Mason County by a large majority over Colonei Waldsworth or any other Republican, notwithstanding the statements of the Democrat to the contrary. We haven't any doubt on that point, and we think we are in a better position to know what we are talking about than the Cynthia Democrat.

The Truth of the Matter.

The lower end of the district is really entitled to the nomination, and after Wall is dropped the race Kehoe would still be the strongest man and could carry Mason against Waldsworth or any other Republican. The object of the article should give great care and judgment in selecting a man who would get the entire vote of his party.—Cynthia Democrat.

The Cynthia Democrat is edited by H. C. Kehoe, a brother to the Hon. J. Dexter Kehoe. Its last issue contained the above remarkable statements, which are the closing paragraphs of an article in which the author, whether the editor or not is a question, took occasion to slur all three of the present Democratic candidates in this district. The object of the author, whoever he may be, is displayed in unmistakable language the first paragraph quoted above. It's a feeble effort to get up a little "boomerang" for the Hon. J. Dexter. We haven't any objection at all to his brother's paper trying to keep him in the contest, but we do most seriously and most earnestly object to his vilifying the present candidates in that effort. The very plan which he has taken to boom his brother will ruin forever that brother's chances not only in the coming convention, but in this district hereafter. If he wants to maintain the respect and esteem of this county, and of this district, he must cease traducing their candidates. The editor of the Democrat should remember that his brother entered into a written compact, if defeated in the primary, to use his efforts in behalf of Judge Wall. If he is going to break faith now, well and good. The Democrats of this county will know how to take him hereafter. The statements in the Democrat are about on a par with the report being industriously circulated about the district that the Irish will not support Judge Wall if he should be nominated. The poll-books of the primary election in this county will show that about as many Irish voted for Judge Wall as did for Mr. Kehoe. They haven't anything at all against Judge Wall. He has always warmly supported their nominees in the race for county offices and has been a true friend to them throughout. Moreover, the Irish of this county are always true to the principles of their party, and are always found supporting its nominees. The statement that they would not vote for Judge Wall, if nominated, is a slur upon their Democracy, and we protest against it. It's simply an effort to injure Judge Wall, but it will fail.

Data concerning Various Diseases.

An advance reprint from the annual report of the Michigan state board of health consists of a paper by Erwin F. Smith, in which the author has collected data from various sources, several of which are quoted from the tables he draws the following conclusions, which, it may be remarked, are fully borne out by a study of similar data in Chicago:

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

From these tables he draws the following conclusions, which, it may be remarked, are fully borne out by a study of similar data in Chicago:

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Three Ills.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

FORCED ROBBERIES.

A Young Wife Compelled to Commit Burglary to Help Her Husband.

CINCINNATI, July 10.—Mrs. John Brown and her pretty young wife were arrested yesterday, charged with burglary. The wife testified that since her marriage, eight months ago, she had been continually ill used. A short time ago Friday she planned the burglary of her husband's residence, at 1000 W. 12th street, to help him get out of debt. She forced his wife to enter the place, after he had opened the door, but she found only $100, some clothing and a clock. For her failure to find the $300 to beat her terribly. She also told of other robberies that had been committed in the neighborhood. When the police came to arrest her, her husband, who was given the sullen looking husband was near an open window, and when the justice announced that he was held for the criminal court, Brown made a dash for liberty and would not stand still. He was taken into custody, and fifteen feet from the door he was shot through the heart. The young wife was released on bail.

IN A PRECARIOUS CONDITION.

MARY RILEY, the Servant Girl Shot at Mt. Washington.

CINCINNATI, July 19.—Mary Riley, the unfortunate girl who was shot at the residence of Mr. Keever, in Mt. Washington, during the stormy last Monday night, by Will C. Keever, is in a dangerous condition. She is in a room in the rear of the house, with a bullet wound, though not through a vital part, of such length, from the left shoulder blade to the lower part of the back, and of such a character that it will require the best of surgical attendance and careful nursing to save her life.

The bleeding has been almost entirely internal and the pain very great. Mr. and Mrs. Keever have employed a professional nurse and are taking the best care of her. Young Keever looks very keenly the sad mistake he has made, and is doing all in his power to relieve her suffering, which she bears patiently and cheerfully.

A NEGRO LYNNED.

A Mob of One Hundred Hand a Rabisher and Burn a Negro.

SAYSVILLE, July 19.—Jesse Braswell, a negro, was lynched near Flushing, Bullock county. Braswell had ravished and horribly mutilated Dolly Woods, a six-year-old girl, while on her way to school. She identified him after his capture, and he confessed that he was a burglar, and is doing all in his power to relieve her suffering, which she bears patiently and cheerfully.

A crowd of one hundred whites and blacks had a conference and gave Braswell the choice of being burned or hanging himself. He chose the latter, and was fastened to a rope around his own neck and a limb of the tree, but then refused to jump off. A negro climbed up, tied Braswell's hands, and the crowd pushed him off with a pole. His body was riddled with bullets. The child is not expected to live.

Elderly Woman Elopes with a Boy.

BATAVIA, O., July 17.—Mrs. W. C. P. Moore, widow of a hardware merchant and relict of a wealthy man, eloped with a negro boy, U. Dauforth, a marble cutter, in the employ of Shupp & Gregory. Dauforth is but twenty-three years old, while the woman is twenty years his senior. Mrs. Moore is a creature of rather unusual reputation, and her departure will not be deeply regretted. They are supposed to have gone south. No measure will be taken to intercept them.

Iowa Drought.

CARSON, Ia., July 17.—There has been no rain here of any consequence for the past six weeks, and yet by careful examination it is found that corn that was planted in season is suffering from the want of rainfall. In fact, this grain has been more injured by the dry hot weather of the past few weeks, and will stand the drought until August, and then yield from fifty to sixty bushels to the acre.

Strong Feeling Against a Murderer.

DEFiance, O., July 19.—Two hundred citizens of Paulding county, west of Findlay, O., were assembled in a park at 10:10 a.m., by shooting himself in the forehead with a 35-caliber electric revolver. He got drunk last night and somebody stole his money, hence the rash act. He will probably be buried Saturday.

Suicide.

CINCINNATI, July 19.—Frank Hensel, aged twenty-four, of Paulding, O., committed suicide by shooting himself in the forehead with a 35-caliber electric revolver. He got drunk last night and somebody stole his money, hence the rash act. He will probably be buried Saturday.

Data concerning Various Diseases.

An advance reprint from the annual report of the Michigan state board of health consists of a paper by Erwin F. Smith, in which the author has collected data from various sources, several of which are quoted from the tables he draws the following conclusions, which, it may be remarked, are fully borne out by a study of similar data in Chicago:

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

Crab Orchard Water decreases in typhoid fever in cases of fever & sweating. To this proposition there were no exceptions. As regards cholera, his conclusions are that unless cases suffer severely, while several others escape entirely, the severity of the disease is proportional to the intensity of the infection. Locality seems to be a factor, as cholera never appears in the same locality where typhoid fever is the ones likely to be visited by cholera, and pure and abundant water supply is a great safeguard. Second, that there is no direct relation between the number of cases of cholera and the number of deaths, and the number of deaths from typhoid fever and from diphtheria, the living and the dead, however, per capita, the former reaches the maximum of its answerable condition. His final conclusion is that the introduction of sewage systems and the adoption of improved methods of disposal of refuse, and financial economy, because, along with greater freedom from sickness and consequent important saving of time and money, it insures to the individual a longer life, and a more comfortable existence.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

Seersucker Coats and Vests;

Silk Pongee Coats and Vests;

Alpaca Coats and Vests;

Children's Waists;

Light-Weight Suits in various fabrics; prices LOWER than any other house in the State.

THE season is here for them and we have them for you.

Seeing is believing, so come and look at them.

HECKINGER & CO.

ODDFELLOWS' HALL.

A BANQUET OF BARGAINS,

SPECIALLY PREPARED FOR BUYERS, FOR

THE NEXT THIRTY DAYS.

J. W. SPARKS & BRO.

1,000 yards Checked Nainsooks at 7½ and 8 cents; 2,000 yards India Linens at 10 and 12½ cents; 2,000 yards Figured Lawns at 4½ cents; 2,500 yards Figured Lawns at 5 cents; Curtain Scrims at 12½, 14 and 20 cents per yard; Lace Curtains at $1.00, 1.25, 1.50 and 2.00 per pair; 500 pairs Lisle Thread and Silk Gloves at 20, 25, 35, 40 and 50 cents per pair; 100 Parasols at 50 per cent. less than cost; 1,000 Fans at 5, 10 and 15 cents each. We have reduced the prices on our Ginghams, seersuckers, and Satineens. If you want goods cheap, call at 24, Market street.

J. W. SPARKS & BRO.

Rheumatism

Though painful and wearing almost beyond endurance, is not an incurable disease if treated in the right way. It can be cured by the efforts of science and medicine as well as by the efforts of the patient. In fact, this, but at least a remedy has been devised in this disease.

TONGALINE is a new and powerful remedy for Rheumatism.

TONGALINE is doing all that is claimed it will do. It is a safe remedy.

TONGALINE is a safe remedy.

<b

THE EVENING BULLETIN

MONDAY, JULY 19, 1886.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
Publishers and Proprietors.
To whom address all communications.

INDICATIONS—"Fair weather, stationary temperature."

WHITE SOUP 5 cents, at Calhoun's.

"MOTHER HUMOR" bathing parties are all the go at Shelbyville.

THERE are now living in Fleming County ten veterans of the Mexican war.

MANCHESTER has voted saloons out of her corporate limits. They will retire next week.

ATM'S Sarsaparilla is the most effective blood purifier ever devised. It is recommended by the best physicians.

TWENTY years ago, Manchester's annual expense for paupers amounted to but $80. Now the cost is $1,600 a year.

A JESSAMINE county farmer raised two thousand bushels of wheat this year, and got $1 a bushel for it. The sale was made last fall.

DAVID E. DICKSON and Miss Inez Collis will be married to-morrow at the residence of Mrs. Emily Collis in the Orangeburg precinct.

E. F. MULLAY, who attended school at the Mayville Seminary in 1875 and 1876, is now editing the Rush County Democrat at Walnut City, Kansas.

SIMTH & CO., cigar manufacturers, have dissolved partnership; Mr. J. L. Daughton retiring. John T. Smith and William E. Stalldup will continue the business at the old stand.

Have given Tongalline a fair trial in many cases of neuralgia and rheumatism, and find it the only reliable remedy for these complaints.—Drs. Terry & Keithly, Millford, Mo.

BOURBON County reports the following big tax-payers: J. E. Clay & Co., $121,900; Samuel Clay, $118,550; William Tarr, $102,600; C. M. Clay, $102,500; G. G. White, $100,500.

JAMES H. SALLER, nominee for Commonwealth's Attorney, is advertised as one of the speakers for a picnic to be held near Hillsboro in Fleming County on the 31st of this month.

In one of the quarries near Greenup last week, seven kgs of powder were used in one blast. The Gazette says one hundred yards of stone in a solid piece was brought out by the blast.

MARTIN COONEY, who resides on Lawrence Creek, raised 6,500 pounds of tobacco last year on three acres of land. He sold it Saturday to Lou Ellis, of Ripley, for $7 per hundred from the ground up.

If you value your eyesight, use nothing but the Diamond spectacles. They are pronounced by high scientific authority, as well as by thousands who have worn them, the best in the world. They are for sale by Bellenger.

In a "friendly fight" at Steppeton, Rowan County, the other day, Harry Bittinger, a telegraph operator, stabbed Wild Bill, a negro boy, in the abdomen. The cutting was accidental. The wound is thought to be a fatal one.

HALL's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Remover never fails in restoring gray hair to its youthful color, lustre, and vitality. Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, endorses it, and all who give it a fair trial unite in grateful testimonial to its many virtues.

H. CLAY STONE announces himself in the BULLETIN this week as a candidate for Justice of the Peace in Lewisburg precinct. He has been solicited by his friends to make the race, and promises, if chosen for the place, to serve the people to the best of his ability.

J. E. NOYES has six acres of tobacco on the Fleming pike, near this city, which is pronounced one of the finest crops in the county. He topped part of it last week, the first topping reported this season. It is his intention to exhibit some of the leaf at the Young Men's Fair next month.

The Lexington Drummer, in speaking of the gay party of young ladies and gentlemen who went out to Blue Lick Springs the other Saturday from this place, says: "A better looking and better behaved crowd of young people never were seen at the springs. They drove out from Mayville in single buggies, in pairs, as they are liable to go through life."

The Danbury News will have a hard time in getting its readers to believe the following which it recently published. It says: "A mouse fell into a bowl of cream the other night, and in its efforts to keep afloat churned the cream into butter, on which it stood and climbed out. This is claimed to be true because the mouse left a trail of butter all along the clean pantry shelf."

Personal.

JANUARY GRANDY is here visiting the family of Hon. Robert A. Cochran.

Misses Salie Bollinger and Annie Darrell, are visiting Miss May Rea, of Farris, Ky.

Division Deputy T. Talbot, of Tennessee is here looking after "Uncle Sam's" business.

Miss Emma Laytham, of Fayette County, is here visiting the family of Sheriff Dan Perrine.

Mr. James H. Rogers and children have gone to Camp Acton, near Indianapolis, Ind., to spend some time with relatives.

Miss Evaline Bidleman, of St. Louis, arrived here Saturday and will spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lovell.

Miss Mary Collins has returned to her home North Middlefield, after a visit of several days to Miss Julia Worthington at Fern Leaf.

Samuel Hall returned, Saturday, from Owingsville, Ky., where she has been visiting her relatives for the past two or three weeks.

MISS RENA SMALL, of Aberdeen, who has been visiting friends and relatives in the Helena neighborhood, returned home last week accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Wm. Collins, of that place, and Miss Kate Kane, who had been spending a few days with them.

River News.

Kanawha and Big Sandy falling.

Fog delayed the packets this morning. Falling at Pittsburgh. The rise was not sufficient to let out any coal.

Due down for Cincinnati: Boone, 3 p.m.; Bonanza, 5 p.m.; Big Sandy, 1 a.m.

Due up: Boston, 12:30 o'clock p.m.

The St. Lawrence and Telegraph tested their speed Saturday. In the start from here, the latter boat had a little advantage over the former, but the St. Lawrence passed her before the bend below town was rounded.

The Charles Morgan brought up a crowd of some three or four hundred excursionists from Cincinnati yesterday, arriving here about 5:30 o'clock, and leaving on return trip about 7 o'clock. It was one of the most orderly and well-behaved excursion parties that has ever come here from the Queen City.

Credit Court.

Reason Soward was convicted of Sabbath breaking, and fined ten dollars and costs.

Joseph Price was tried on a charge of Sabbath breaking and acquitted.

A. Weiland was tried on a charge of suffering unlawful gaming. The jury adjudged him guilty and fined him $200 and costs.

George Hughes was adjudged guilty of carrying concealed a deadly weapon, and his punishment fixed at a fine of $50, and costs. In addition to this he was sent to jail at hard labor for thirty days.

Thomas Guillfoile was tried on an indictment for Sabbath breaking. The jury acquitted him.

Remarkable Bargains

Will be offered from this date, consisting of new and second-hand barouches, surreys, jiggers, spring wagons, &c., &c.

MYALL & SHACKLEFORD,
No. 16, Sutton street, Mayville, Ky.

The effort to obtain a public building for Newport, Ky., has been abandoned.

The President intimated that a bill appropriating a sum for that purpose would meet with a prompt veto at his hands. The Newport correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer admits there is no need of a public building there, and says it wouldn't pay the Government one cent on the investment.

The Lexington Gazette of Saturday says: "Dr. John T. Fleming, of Mayville, was in town yesterday as a delegate to the convention, and no one would have recognized the 'Wild Fleming,' as he was called while attending the medical lectures in this city some fifty years ago, in the dignified delegate of the judicial convention. The only escape he made while here, was to climb to the top of the court-house and take a view of the city and surroundings. This was excuse in so sprightly a youth of some sixty-five summers."

To Whom it May Concern.

For the past year the undersigned have tried to effect a compromise on Morrison tide property in the city of Mayville without satisfactory results. In consequence of which, it has become necessary to place said estate in the hands of our attorney, M. M. Brown, 150 Washington street, Chicago, Ill. No further compromise will be made.

FLORENCE QUINCY, nee Morrison,
FRANK C. MORRISON. 1406

Bucklin's Arsenic Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, burns, scalds, blisters, ulcers, sore eyes, sores, bitter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no ray required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by J. O. Pecor & Co.

Personal.

The best salve in the world for cuts, burns, scalds, blisters, ulcers, sore eyes, sores, bitter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no ray required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by J. O. Pecor & Co.

Personal.

Personal.

DICK TOWNSEND HUNG.

A SOUTHERN DESPERADO PAYS THE PENALTY OF HIS CRIME.

A Large Crowd of People Attracted to Valdosta, Georgia, Where the Quadruple Murderer is Legally Executed—A Short History of His Crimes.

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 19.—The hanging of the murderer Dick Townsend in this place drew a great crowd of curious people. Townsend was a negro of powerful build, and was feared alike by black and white. He appeared in Bradford county, Florida, about four years ago, being then nineteen years of age, and hailing from Lowndes county, Georgia, where his character was that of a blood-thirsty desperado. About that time he had a companion named Lowry, with whom he committed many crimes.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

Lowry's body was found in the woods, and the negro was buried in the cemetery of the colored people. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to the hospital, where he died. Townsend's wife, who had been with him, was also shot, but died before reaching the hospital. She was buried in the cemetery of the colored people.

One day Lowry's dead body was found in the woods covered with knife wounds. The general belief was that Townsend was the murderer, but there was no evidence against him and no legal steps were taken. From that time Townsend became more and more notorious. He was at a dance in Columbia county, one night, when a colored man, Chas. Clegg, had large cartridges for his shotgun. Townsend, who was drunk, snatched the gun and made his way through the woods with supplies for his men, always carried with him large sums of money. To him Townsend went and secured employment, and accompanied the wounded negro to town, where he was found to be dead. From that time on he was known as the "dead man." Townsend, however, was not dead, but had been shot in the head, and was still breathing. He was taken to

